Value Truth:

Three things cannot be long hidden: the sun, the moon, and the truth.

Can I ever tell a lie?

White lies, little lies, lies that don't hurt anyone.

This weeks' Family Talk Homework explores whether there is ever a moment when it's ok to just not tell the truth?

You could discuss:-

Times when telling a lie is less painful than telling the truth.

What (if anything) do you class a 'white lie'—or are all lies to be treated the same?

Is honesty always really the best policy?

Why do some people feel the need to lie?

Is not saying anything the same as lying? – Have fun with that one!!!

What happens to trust when we lie?
