Family Talk Homework

Friendship

Every group we asked about our school vision wanted the word “Friendship” included. This week’s talk homework is an activity on friendship from our new SCARF resource.

What you can talk about.

How am I different from my friends and family?

Do I have to like or enjoy the same things as my friends and family?

How can I show kindness to other people - in my family and at school?

What different groups are there where we live?

Which groups are we part of, or are other members of our family part of?

Why might these groups be important to us?

What you can do together

Activity 1 - Same and different

Start with a conversation about the things that makes us the same as our friends and other people in our family and the things that make us different.

Activity 2

Either—Make the paper chain friends, you'll need some paper for this—scrap paper will do.

Or do the Time 2 Talk sheet

Or do them both.

Pasta or pizza? Footy or films?
Find out more about yourself and your family member, by talking about your favourite things.

Talk about your faves - explain why you like them so much

★ Were there any faves that were the same?

★ Do you think you've learnt something new about each other?

Sometimes it gets TRICKY when grown-ups and children talk to each other - especially when sharing different ideas and opinions.

These 3 tips might help -

- ★ Listen carefully to each other's views and feelings
- ★ Try to explain your feelings or opinions
- ★ Talk WITH each other - rather than 'AT' each other

PAPER CHAIN FRIENDS

You will need: A long strip of paper (some old wallpaper would be great for this), some colouring pencils/pens, scissors and glue.

1

Cut round the friend picture on this page and stick it onto the edge of your long strip of paper. (If you are using old wallpaper, stick it on the plain side.)

2

Fold the paper like a concertina (zigzag) so that the friend is at the front.

3

Ask an adult to help you cut around the picture, through all the folded paper. Don't cut over the edges of the friend's hands.

4 When you open up the paper, you should have a row of shapes that looks like people holding hands.

Draw a different friend on each shape, then on the back of each 'friend' write ideas of something kind that you can do for your friends - when you get to see them again!
